I.

FROM THE BRITISH HIGH COMMISSIONER AT CAIRO TO THE EGYPTIAN MINISTER FOR FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

THE RESIDENCY,
CAIRO, JULY 25, 1930.

YOUR EXCELLENCY,

With reference to the provisional agreement between His Majesty’s Government in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland concluded by notes exchanged between his Excellency Wassif Boutros Ghali Pasha and myself, dated the 5th and 7th June, regarding the grant of reciprocal most-favoured-nation treatment, and in accordance with the proposals contained in the enclosure to your Excellency's predecessor's note of the 4th June, I have the honour to inform your Excellency, at the request of His Majesty's Government in the Irish Free State and under instructions from His Majesty’s Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, that His Majesty’s Government in the Irish Free State is prepared to accord complete most-favoured-nation treatment to all articles, the produce or manufacture of Egypt, imported into the Irish Free State, on the understanding that goods produced or manufactured in the Irish Free State will reciprocally receive complete most-favoured-nation treatment on their importation into Egypt.

2. I should be grateful if your Excellency would be good enough to inform me whether the Egyptian Government agrees that this proposal constitutes a modus vivendi governing the commercial relations between the Irish Free State and Egypt for the period ending the 16th February, 1931, unless in the meantime a formal Treaty of Commerce and Navigation shall have been concluded between the Irish Free State and Egypt.

3. It is understood that the proposed modus vivendi will not affect the right of the Irish Free State to modify, maintain, or extend the preferential treatment accorded to one of the States, members of the British Commonwealth of Nations. It is also understood that the benefit of the most-favoured-nation clause is accorded by Egypt under reserve of the treatment accorded to the products of the Sudan, or which may be accorded to the products of certain countries bordering on Egypt by virtue of regional conventions.

4. If the arrangement proposed in the present note meets with the approval of the Egyptian Government, this note and an acknowledgment of its receipt by your Excellency will constitute an agreement between the two Governments.
