Recalling Economic and Social Council resolution 2008 (LX) of 14 May 1976, the annex to which contains the terms of reference of the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination whereby the Committee shall, inter alia, recommend an order of priorities among United Nations programmes as defined in the medium-term plan, the conclusions and recommendations contained in the report of the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination.

Considering that the determination of priorities among programmes, the identification of obsolete activities, and evaluation should be fully integrated into the general process of planning, programming and management,

I

OVER-ALL CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

1. Notes with satisfaction the conclusions and recommendations contained in the above-mentioned reports of the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination, the Secretary-General and the Joint Inspection Unit;

2. Endorses the conclusions and recommendations set forth in the report of the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination concerning an order of priorities among programmes⁴⁶ and, in particular:

(a) Requests the Secretary-General to present to the General Assembly at its thirty-seventh session, through the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination at its twenty-second session, proposals enabling it to adopt official rules and regulations governing programme planning, the programme aspects of the budget, the monitoring of implementation and the methods of evaluation, such proposals to take into account all decisions so far taken with respect to planning, programming and evaluation;

(b) Urges that the monitoring of the implementation of programme commitments should be entrusted to a central unit within the Secretariat, noting that, as the work of the unit should include determination of actual programme delivery and a role in the making of decisions that involves their possible modification, that work should be defined in the context of the above-mentioned official rules and regulations, bearing in mind the comments and suggestions made in the reports of the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination⁴⁷ and the Joint Inspection Unit,⁴⁸ as well as by delegations in the Fifth Committee;⁴⁹

(c) Decides that the length of the sessions of the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination should depend on its programme of work and on problems of scheduling, and emphasizes in this connection the need to grant the Committee, for its session in 1982, sufficient time to enable it to make a complete and detailed examination of the draft medium-term plan for the period 1984-1989;

(d) Reaffirms the need for close co-ordination between the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination and the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions and, for this purpose, requests the Advisory Committee to study the statements submitted by the Secretary-General on the administrative and financial implications of the recommendations made by the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination, as endorsed by the Economic and Social Council, and to include its recommendations in a separate chapter of its report or in an addendum thereto for consideration by the General Assembly together with the recommendations of the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination;

3. Recommends that the organizations concerned should increase the effectiveness of their evaluation system and take the necessary steps to implement the recommendations contained in the reports of the Joint Inspection Unit,⁴⁵ and in particular those concerning self-evaluation and the integration of evaluation in the planning and management process;

4. Requests the Secretary-General to improve the evaluation services of the United Nations in accordance with the recommendations contained in the reports of the Joint Inspection Unit;

II

ORDER OF PRIORITY AMONG PROGRAMMES

Decides to adopt the measures and guidelines set out below for the determination of an order of priority among programmes:

1. The principal purpose of establishing priorities among programmes that form an integral part of the general planning and management process is to rationalize and order the activities and provide a guide for the preparation of the programme budget.

2. The order of priority should be established as follows:

(a) At the highest level, it should be established by as precise an indication as possible of the problems and of the over-all orientation and trends deriving from authoritative instruments such as the Charter of the United Nations, the International Development Strategy for the Third United Nations Development Decade⁵⁰ and the resolutions on the new international economic order. The introduction to the medium-term plan should, accordingly, analyse the trends that reflect the over-all priorities.

(b) At the subprogramme level in the draft medium-term plan or the proposed programme budget, it should be established by a decision of the General Assembly to accept, curtail, reformulate or reject subprogrammes on the basis of the budget and programme performance reports, the detailed evaluation reports and the recommendations of the competent intergovernmental bodies, it being understood that the priorities established at the subprogramme level should contribute to the achievement of the over-all priorities determined at the highest level.

3. Without prejudice to arrangements and procedures now in force and to the specific character of the common services, the establishment of an order of priority should apply to all the substantive activities of the Organization and to the common services and serve as a guide for the allocation of all its budgetary and extrabudgetary resources. For that purpose the decisions on priorities should be brought to the attention of Member States and the governing boards of the voluntary funds.

4. The establishment of an order of priority should be based principally on the importance of the objective to Member States, the capacity of the Organization to achieve it and the real effectiveness and usefulness of the results.

5. The timetable and the procedures for the introduction of the new system for setting priorities should extend over a period of two and a half years, as indicated in the report of the Secretary-General.⁵¹

6. A report on the operation of this new system for setting priorities should be submitted to the General Assembly at its thirty-ninth session, through the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination. That critical report should reveal the difficulties encountered, make suggestions for dealing with them and indicate whether further changes must

ACTIVITIES THAT HAVE BEEN COMPLETED OR ARE OBSOLETE, OF MARGINAL USEFULNESS OR INEFFECTIVE

1. Reaffirms the need to integrate the identification of activities that have been completed or are obsolete, of marginal usefulness or ineffective in the general process of planning, programming, budgeting evaluation and management;

2. Requests the Secretary-General to continue to provide the General Assembly, in the context of the preparation of the proposed programme budget and through the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination, with a list of the activities considered obsolete, of marginal usefulness or ineffective, in order to facilitate decision-making;

3. Requests the Secretary-General to continue his efforts to achieve better implementation of General Assembly resolutions 3534 (XXX) of 17 December 1975, 31/93 of 14 December 1976, 32/201 of 21 December 1977, 33/204 of 29 January 1979, 34/225 of 20 December 1979 and 35/209 of 17 December 1980, concerning activities that have been completed or are obsolete, of marginal usefulness or ineffective and for this purpose requests him to continue to refine further, if necessary, the criteria for the determination of those activities.
